NOTE:

The Department requested that a limited inquiry be conducted through our Liaison Section with the Department of Defense and USDS. This inquiry relates to the possible unauthorized disclosure of the contents of a classified document relating to the proposed sale of a Hawk Missile system to Jordan. This document had been submitted to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and the House Foreign Affairs Committee and reportedly originated within the Department of Defense.

The New York Times, 8/8/76, edition reported that this document was subsequently transmitted to Mr. Morris Amitay, Director of the American Israel Public Affairs Committee.

The Assistant Attorney General requested that we obtain a copy of the questioned document as well as answers to questions relating to the document's origin, classification, extent of official dissemination, whether it can be declassified for purposes of prosecution, etc.

The above-mentioned USDS report enclosed a copy of the classified document as well as the answers to various questions relating to the classification of the classified document. The USDS advised that the information could be declassified for the purposes of prosecution inasmuch as possible disclosure of the information has already occurred.

The Department of Defense's response was furnished to the Assistant Attorney General by memorandum dated 10/18/76.

CONFIDENTIAL

1. The origin of the document and the name of the individual responsible for the security of the classified information disclosed.

It is uncontested that the Department of Defense is the originating agency for the correspondence in question. This is clear from the face of the documents and is confirmed by letter of 8 July 1976 from Lt. General Fish, Director, Defense Security Assistance Agency, and Deputy Assistant Secretary (ISA), Security Assistance, to David Small, Assistant Legal Adviser for Near Eastern and South Asian Affairs, Department of State.

It is not clear who is "the individual responsible for the security of the classified information disclosed." Under E.O. 11652 and the implementing National Security Council Directive of May 17, 1972, there is no single individual responsible for the security of classified information. Rather, each person in possession or custody of classified information or documents is responsible for their security. A wide range of persons in the White House, NSC, State Department, Defense Department and Congress are, thus, among the individuals responsible for the security of the classified information improperly disclosed. According to a story appearing in The New York Times on August 5, 1975, written by David Binder, the documents in question were disclosed to Morris Amitay by aides to Senator Clifford Case and Representative Jonathan Bingham. Had the disclosure, loss, or compromise of classified information occurred in the Department of State, the Office of Security would have had responsibilities, under the Department's security regulations, for certain follow-up measures called for by the NSC Directive of May 17, 1972, relating to the determination of the identity of the person responsible for the compromise and the taking of any appropriate administrative, disciplinary or legal action. The Department of State has no information regarding the allegations contained in The New York Times, or can it shed further light on who is responsible for the unauthorized disclosure or for the supervision of Congressional compliance with security regulations.

2. Specific portions of the document which are classified and whether the information was properly classified.

Regarding Transmittal No. 75-35, the specific dollar amount, $87.0 million, and the number of M163 weapons, 100, were the only classified information in the document. Regarding Transmittal No. 75-40, the classified portions were, similarly, the dollar amount, $265.5 million, and the numbers of Hawk batteries, 14, and Hawk missiles, 532.

The material appears to have been properly classified. As required by Section 4 of E.O. 11652, each document showed on its face the classification, Confidential; its inclusion under the General Declassification Schedule; and the identification of the individual at the highest level that authorized that classification, the "Director, Comptroller" of the Defense Security Assistance Agency. The fact that neither indicated the date of preparation, but showed, instead, the date of transmittal, would not appear to be a sufficiently material deviation from the rules as to invalidate the classification, but this would be a matter for Justice to determine. Substantively, the Department of State, which is an "interested agency", within the meaning of the NSC Directive, in regard to these security assistance transactions, and which provides the foreign relations guidance relied upon by the Defense Department in classification of such documents, considers that the unauthorized disclosure of information on the numbers and value of important defense systems acquired by a foreign government could reasonably be expected to cause damage to that government's confidence in the United States as its major weapons supplier and thus cause damage to a significant aspect of our foreign relations. The specific details of Jordan's military equipment needs are information provided us in confidence by that government. The classification of the documents in question was, in our view, substantively proper.

3. The extent of official dissemination of the document.

Within State, such documents are disseminated to the following offices: NEA, NEA/ARN, NEA/RA, PM, PM/SAS, INR/RNA, and H.

4. Whether the information has been the subject of an official release prior to the August 8, 1975 article.

It is not clear that August 8, 1975, is the relevant date, since the The New York Times article appearing that date alleges disclosure immediately after receipt of the documents by the Congress on July 10, 1975. Further, a check of The New York Times indicates the publication of classified information relating to these weapons sales to Jordan at least as early as July 12, 1975. The appropriate Bureaus of the Department are unaware of any official release of the information whatsoever. "Leaks" are not considered to be "official release" and neither the July nor August press stories constitute official release.

5. Whether prior clearance for release of the information was sought from proper authorities.

The appropriate Bureaus of the Department are unaware of any request for authorization to disclose the classified information in question having been made to the Department of State or to the Defense Department prior to the leak.

6. Whether the data can be declassified for the purpose of prosecution and, if so, the name of the person competent to testify concerning the classification.

With the public disclosure of the information having already occurred, the authorization of its release for the purpose of prosecution would not be expected to cause damage to our relations with Jordan. Thus, from a foreign relations viewpoint, the documents could be declassified for that purpose. The person competent to testify concerning the foreign relations aspect of the classification is Deputy Assistant Secretary of State Arthur R. Day.

7. Whether declassification had been decided upon prior to the release of the information.

Not to the knowledge of the appropriate State Department Bureaus.

8. What effect, if any, the disclosure of the information has had on the national defense.

While the Department of State could authoritatively address the impact of the disclosure on the national security of the United States, or, more particularly, the foreign relations interests which are a part thereof, it would defer to the Department of Defense for an authoritative assessment of the effect on national defense. In the Department of State's judgment, however, it is entirely possible that the simplistic press reports about the overall cost, generated by these specific disclosures of classified information regarding financial aspects of the Hawk/Vulcan sale to Jordan, -- reports carried widely in Middle Eastern media -- contributed to the serious misunderstandings that subsequently arose in 1976 between the Governments of Jordan and Saudi Arabia regarding the overall cost of Jordan's air defense program (which the Saudis had earlier agreed to finance). The eight-month impasse that resulted from these misunderstandings delayed implementation of the Hawk/Vulcan sale and prompted Jordan to explore seriously the acquisition of comparable air defense equipment from the Soviet Union. Had Jordan actually entered into such a major arms-supply relationship with the Soviets, this would have had a significant adverse impact on U.S. national defense interests and on U.S.-Jordanian relations. Fortunately, this damage was averted by the successful resolution of the Hawk/Vulcan funding controversy between the Jordanians and the Saudis in August of this year.

The initial investigation regarding this matter was based upon a complaint received from [redacted] Associate General Counsel, Office of the United States Trade Representative (USTR), 600 17th Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. (WDC). The complaint alleged that person(s) unknown had made available to the government of Israel, a confidential report published by the International Trade Commission (ITC) outlining the probable effect of providing duty-free treatment of imports from Israel.

UNKNOWN SUBJECTInvestigation to Date:

This matter was initially investigated by WFO as a possible violation of the espionage statute. The preliminary inquiry regarding this investigation was initiated on June 19, 1984.

This preliminary inquiry determined that on January 25, 1984, the U.S. International Trade Commission (ITC), WDC, was requested by the USTR to prepare a report for the President relating to the establishment of a free trade area with Israel.

On May 31, 1984, 40 copies of the final report were distributed with one copy designated for the President, 28 copies to the USTR, and 11 copies within the ITC.

On May 21, 1984, a Department of Commerce (DOC) employee was in Jerusalem following the formal U.S.-Israeli negotiations which had been held the week before. This employee met with [REDACTED]

b6

[REDACTED] for the Israeli Embassy in WDC. [REDACTED] stated that he had received a cable from the Israeli Embassy in WDC and then proceeded to read from this cable what appeared to be a full summary of the report, including the conclusions regarding sensitive products.

On or about May 30, 1984, prior to the USTR distribution of the "final report", a member of the Trade Subcommittee of the Senate Finance Committee notified USTR that after a conversation with an employee of the "American Israel Public Affairs Committee" (AIPAC) in WDC, this member was left with the impression that AIPAC had a copy of the subject report. This unidentified AIPAC member was familiar with the report's contents and conclusions.

On June 7, 1984, the Israeli Trade Minister and [REDACTED] [REDACTED] lunched with Ambassador William Brock and [REDACTED] of the USTR. [REDACTED] recalled that [REDACTED] was aware of the contents of the report.

b6

On June 12 and 13, 1984, information passed to USTR indicated that certain members of Congress could acquire copies of the ITC report through AIPAC.

On June 15, 1984, the USTR general counsel telephoned AIPAC employee [REDACTED] and inquired if AIPAC had a copy of the USTR report. [REDACTED] advised they did. [REDACTED] was asked to return this confidential report and all copies. Subsequently,

b6

UNKNOWN SUBJECT

[redacted] of AIPAC, contacted USTR to claim no knowledge of the report himself and to disassociate himself from such activities. A copy of the USTR report was subsequently delivered to USTR. Also delivered was a substantial portion of a second copy of the report in an unsorted condition. The full report copy was a copy of the "final report" and had no identifying mark on the outside cover which was clearly stamped confidential. This indicates that this copy was probably made prior to the May 30 delivery to USTR. USTR officials advised the significance of the unauthorized disclosure of the contents of the ITC report is that the bargaining position of the United States was compromised and "Business Confidential" information used in the report was made available to the public. This disclosure also impacts on the effectiveness of the ITC to solicit data from the U.S. business community. No national defense information was utilized in the preparation of the ITC report.

b7C

This matter was studied by U.S. Department of Justice (DOJ) officials [redacted] Internal Security Section, and by [redacted] General Litigation and Legal Advice Section. On August 24, 1984, it was determined that this matter did not represent a violation of the espionage statute as it was reported that no national defense information was utilized in the preparation of the report.

b6
b7C

DOJ subsequently opined that a violation of the Theft of Government Property statute had occurred and that the matter should be presented to the local United States Attorney's Office for a prosecutive opinion.

On September 19, 1984, Assistant United States Attorney (AUSA) Charles Harkins, WDC, opined that this matter lacked prosecutive merit and declined prosecution under the Theft of Government Property statute.

On November 1, 1985, the Criminal Division of the DOJ advised WFO that it has determined that additional investigation should be conducted to ascertain responsibility for the unauthorized disclosure of this report. Specifically, it was requested that this matter be investigated to determine if offenses under 18 U.S.C. 641 (Theft of Government Property) and 18 U.S.C. 1905 (Disclosure of Confidential Business Information) had occurred.

[redacted] DOJ, Public Integrity Section, was designated to coordinate this investigation. A meeting took place on November 15, 1985, at the Department of Justice between [redacted] and representatives of the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) in an effort to outline investigative strategies.

b6
b7C

As a result of the investigation into this matter being re-opened, [redacted] employees at AIPAC [redacted] were interviewed by WFO.

On December 19, 1985, [redacted] was interviewed by WFO and advised that she was employed as [redacted] for AIPAC during the period of [redacted]. She also advised that as an employee of AIPAC, she became aware of the trade report prepared by the ITC. She indicated that she received the report from [redacted] for AIPAC, in approximately June of 1984.

[redacted] explained that she studied the report for a few weeks before returning it to an unrecalled official at AIPAC. She further advised that she had no information regarding who initially received the report at AIPAC, who released it from the ITC, or the USTR, or who gave it to [redacted].

On December 19, 1985, [redacted] was also interviewed regarding this report. [redacted] advised that she received the report from [redacted] for the Israeli Embassy in WDC. She advised that [redacted] gave her this report in approximately April of 1984.

She advised that [redacted] gave no specific instructions regarding the report and, in fact, she later learned that the report was known to be "floating around town" and that the contents of the report were common knowledge to those interested in these matters.

[redacted] stated she could provide no information regarding who initially provided the report to [redacted].

b6
b7C

On February 13, 1986, [redacted] [redacted] for AIPAC was interviewed by WFO. [redacted] advised that he first became aware of this report being in the possession of AIPAC at some unrecalled date in the spring of 1984.

At this time, [redacted] advised that [redacted] informed him that USTR General Counsel [redacted] had contacted her to determine if AIPAC had this report.

b6

UNKNOWN SUBJECT

It was determined by [redacted] that [redacted] and [redacted] had seen the report and that it was his understanding that [redacted] provided them with the report. [redacted] stated that the report did not pertain to U.S. national defense matters and that AIPAC had taken no action to solicit the report.

b6

[redacted] advised that he had no information pertaining to how [redacted] had received the report. [redacted] did advise that he provided a duplicate copy of the report to [redacted] before the original report was returned to USTR. In November of 1985, [redacted] told [redacted] that she had discarded the duplicate copy of the report at some time prior to November of 1985.

b6
b7C

[redacted] stated that AIPAC did nothing illegal or improper by possessing the report and that once USTR contacted AIPAC regarding the report, AIPAC took immediate action to return it.

b6

On March 7, 1986, [redacted] was interviewed at the Israeli Embassy by WFO. [redacted] acknowledged receiving the report and passing it on to representatives of AIPAC.

Regarding the receipt of this report, [redacted] citing diplomatic immunity, claimed that it would be "impossible within the professional ethics of his diplomatic position" to identify the individual who furnished the report to him. [redacted] did state that this person was not a U.S. Government official or an employee of the U.S. Government.

b6

[redacted] stated that this report was widely disseminated before he received it and that, in his opinion, the report contained little, if any, sensitive or useful information.

[redacted] advised that he could not recall exactly who he gave the report to at AIPAC, nor the approximate date he gave them the report. He advised that this report was not handled in any type of secret manner and that everyone who had knowledge of the report considered this matter to be very routine.

b6

[redacted] concluded by saying that in his opinion the fact that Israel had the report caused no economic damage to any U.S. business or interest and that the entire issue seems to have received more attention than it deserved.

UNKNOWN SUBJECTConclusion:

Investigation by WFO indicates that this report was likely leaked while being prepared at the International Trade Commission (ITC). A review of security procedures at ITC disclosed the fact that there are no security procedures in place that would prevent the outright theft or the printing of an "extra" copy of a report.

The internal investigation conducted by the USTR concluded that the report was compromised by May 21, 1984. Also, the first indication of AIPAC's possession of the report preceded or was coincidental with the delivery of USTR's copies.

As a result of this incident, both the USTR and the ITC are re-evaluating their security procedures and changes will be implemented as deemed appropriate.

In view of the above information and due to the fact that [redacted] has claimed diplomatic immunity in this matter, active investigation into this matter will be discontinued at WFO. Washington Field will be contacted by the USTR or the ITC if pertinent information is developed regarding this or similar incidents.

He further believed that AIPAC had not acted improperly or illegally in having this report in its possession and thereafter, asked [redacted] for AIPAC to examine the document regarding the free trade issue between the U.S. and Israel. She further described this report as being a study by the International Trade Commission (ITC) examining the different product sectors in America and the possible impact these sectors if duty free imports from Israel were allowed. She advised that she did not utilize any of the information gleaned from this report. She could not recall whether the report was classified or not.

[redacted] does not specifically recall to whom she returned the report at AIPAC but thinks it could have been [redacted]. [redacted] advised that at some unrecalled time in 1984 he received this USITC report pertaining to free trade between America and Israel. [redacted] advised that he received this document from someone that he would not identify. He indicated that he received this information in his official capacity as a diplomat and that it would be against the principles of diplomatic work to divulge any information pertaining to the identity of the individual who provided him the report. He further advised that it is impossible within the professional ethics of a diplomat to identify individuals who provide certain information to a diplomat.

[redacted] did state that the individual who provided him with the report was not a U.S. Government Official nor was he an employee of the U.S. Government. [redacted] indicated that there were numerous negotiators regarding this free trade issue representing several U.S. Government agencies including the U.S. Trade Representatives, the U.S. Treasury, the U.S. Commerce Commission, the U.S. Department of State, and the U.S. Department of Agriculture. He advised that there were usually one or two principals representing each of these agencies which would attend most negotiations. He further advised that he thinks certain U.S. negotiators wanted the person who provided [redacted] the report to know about certain aspects pertaining to the United States

Regarding the availability of this report, [REDACTED] advised that the report had been widely circulated among the staff and members of Capitol Hill, as well as among various consultants representing the interest of each agency affected by the free trade issue. He advised that the Government of Israel did not ask to receive the report and stated that when the individual provided him with the report, the transaction was not conducted in a discreet or secretive manner.

[REDACTED] advised that he furnished the report to an employee at the American Israel Public Affairs Committee (AIPAC) during the Spring or Summer of 1984. He believes he gave the report to either [REDACTED] or to [REDACTED]. [REDACTED] indicated that this report was only part of a package that he provided to AIPAC with other routine information.

[REDACTED] advised that he could not recall the specific period of time when he was given the report but stated that the contents of the report were well known by the time he had received it. [REDACTED] advised that he did not try to conceal the fact that representatives of Israel had this report in their possession. He further stated that he believes that the controversy regarding this report is extremely exaggerated and that in his opinion, the fact that representatives of Israel viewed this report, caused no economic damage to any U.S. business or interest.

INTERNATIONAL TRADE AFFAIRS

DELIVERED BY MESSENGER

Dr. Paula Stern, Chairwoman
U.S. International Trade Commission 701 "E" Street, N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20436

Dear Dr. Stern:

Thank you for meeting with us this morning and for your genuine interest about our concerns relating to the Commission's security procedures for "business confidential" information submitted by the private sector. We very much appreciate your willingness to review the various matters we discussed with you, and particularly those included on the document (copy enclosed) that we left with you and Mr. Goodrich.

We look forward to your response on how you might be able to describe, characterize, or give us specifically what "business confidential" information, submitted by the U.S. Bromine Alliance, was included in the Commission's confidential report concerning the U.S. - Israel Free Trade Area proposal that was prepared for the U.S. Trade Representative. We are also hopeful you will be able to tell us (as an example on point) what you found within the Commission concerning the disposition of the 15 copies of "business confidential" information we recently submitted in connection with your GSP investigation.

As you review the other items in the enclosed document to see what type of further advice you can furnish to us with respect to the Commission's standard security procedures, we will undertake to draft a proposal (for consideration) on the type of handling we hope the Commission would adopt with respect to future submissions of "business confidential" information from the U.S. Bromine Alliance or the individual member companies of the Alliance. We also plan to review this same subject with the appropriate personnel at the Office of the U.S. Trade Representative.

Thank you again for your warm reception and cooperation.

Sincerely,

U.S. BROMINE ALLIANCE

November 1, 1984

Talking Points for Meeting with Dr. Paula Stern, Chairwoman, U.S. International Trade Commission

1. Persons present.

Max Turnipseed, Spokesman, U.S. Bromine Alliance, accompanied by Will E. Leonard and Edward R. Easton, attorneys, Busby, Rehm and Leonard, P.C.

2. General Topic.

Commission security procedures for confidential business information submitted to the agency.

3. Background.

The U.S. Bromine Alliance supplied very sensitive cost information to the Commission in response to the Commission's requests for confidential business data in connection with its report on a free trade agreement with Israel. The Alliance presumes that these data were quoted in the Commission's confidential report to the USTR, a copy of which was obtained by representatives of the American-Israel Public Affairs Committee.

The Alliance is currently an interested party in the on-going GSP-related investigations Nos. 503(a)-12 and 332-187. The Alliance has also submitted confidential business information to the Commission in connection with these investigations also.

4. Specific inquiries concerning the Commission's procedures for handling confidential business information;

a. When confidential Commission reports are supplied to the President, the Congress, USTR, or the GAO, what procedures are followed in addition to individually numbering the limited copies supplied? Does a contact person with the recipient undertake to insure that no additional copies will be made? Are there agreements to keep the copies of the reports in a secured filing system with "need to know access" at the recipient institution?

b. Does the Commission have a legal obligation to submit information that may be confidential to any other agencies?

c. The Commission's regulations require a signed original and fourteen copies of each document submitted by a party to an investigation. Is there a Commission policy statement identifying those persons who receive each of these copies? Is there a method for controlling additional copies made from the copies submitted? What criteria exist for guidance with respect to whether additional copies are made? Who is designated to know the location of each copy and those persons with access to it?

d. What are the Commission's instructions to its employees concerning the handling of confidential business submissions? Is the staff instructed not to accept writings which have not been declared confidential by the Secretary? What instructions exist concerning information solicited by telephone or in meetings? Does a staff person decide whether notes concerning such information are to be treated as confidential information or is the staff instructed to consult supervisory personnel in making the decision?

e. How are the Commission's employees made aware of mandatory security procedures? How often does the Office of Administration survey compliance with these instructions?

f. Does the Commission have a training program for instructing its employees on the treatment of submissions from business entities? How often is the program presented? How often are employees required to participate? Would the Commission allow interested business groups to participate in designing future programs?

5. Unlike other administrative agencies such as the Environmental Protection Agency or the Federal Drug Administration, the Commission has not undertaken to notify the submitter of confidential business information when access to such information is sought under the Freedom of Information Act or otherwise. Would the Commission be willing to amend its regulations to notify the submitter when such access was sought?

Mr. Max Turnipseed
U.S. Bromine Alliance

1155 15th Street, N.W.
Washington, D. C. 20005

Dear Mr. Turnipseed:

This is in reply to your November 1, 1984, letter sent to me following the meeting of the same day relating to the handling of "business confidential" information by the U. S. International Trade Commission. In addition to your observations on our security procedures you have specific inquiries concerning (1) the "business confidential" information submitted by the U. S. Bromine Alliance in connection with the U.S.-Israel free trade study, and (2) the disposition of the 15 copies of "business confidential" information the Alliance submitted in connection with the current GSP investigation. I would like to address these matters separately.

1. You requested us to describe, characterize, or specify what business confidential information submitted by the U.S. Bromine Alliance in your letter of April 27, 1984, was included in the U. S. International Trade Commission's confidential report to the U. S. Trade Representative on investigation No. 332-180, Probable Effect of Providing Duty-Free Treatment for Imports from Israel.

The specific business confidential numbers extracted from the Alliance's letter and shown in the report included: (1) the production cost for bromine, (2) production cost, raw material cost, depreciation, or manufacturing cost, by-product cost, and shipping cost for the compound TBBPA and (3) the length of time that sales of domestic TBBPA could be supplied from inventory.

As we discussed at the November 1 meeting the study is currently classified "confidential" from a national security standpoint by the Office of the U. S. Trade Representative. For your information I am enclosing a copy of the clearance (enclosure 1) we received from that office to allow us to provide you the above characterization of the "business confidential" information submitted by the Alliance.

2. Disposition of "business confidential" information related to investigation nos. 503(a)-12 and 332-187 ("GSP- to Add Products to the List of Eligible Articles for the Generalized System of Preferences") - in this particular case the 15 copies of the Alliance's "business confidential" information was distributed within the U. S. International Trade Commission as listed below. It should be noted that not all of the 15 copies are currently in the Commission's files. Some have already been processed for disposal by burning or shredding.

) 19 U.S.C. §§ 2411 et seq.

PETITION

The Institute for Research: Middle Eastern Policy (IRmep) represents American citizens and industries residing in 42 states concerned about trade, development and US Middle East policy formulation. IRmep also represents some of the US industries and organizations originally opposed to passage of the 1985 US-Israel Free Trade Area. (See Appendix #1)

During the spring of 1984 American trade associations, companies and industry representatives provided business confidential information solicited through the Federal Register by the International Trade Commission and US Trade Representative for development of a classified 300+ page report on proposed duty-free entry of Israeli products into the US market. In 1984 the Israeli Minister of Economy Dan Halpern obtained the classified US government report Probable Economic Effect of Providing Duty Free Treatment for U.S. Imports from Israel, Investigation No. 332-180. Halpern passed it to the American Israel Public Affairs Committee (AIPAC) to lobby and engage in public relations in order to generate conditions favorable for passage of the FTA in the US. By request of the USTR, the FBI launched an investigation into how Israel and AIPAC obtained and circulated copies of the classified report during the most critical negotiation period. AIPAC was ordered to return the classified business confidential information, but instead made an unauthorized copy to continue leveraging the data against US industry. After Halpern claimed diplomatic immunity, the Justice Department closed down the investigation. US industries were never compensated. The FBI investigation file wasn't declassified until the summer of 2009. (See Appendix #2) The USTR continues to refuse declassification and release of the trade report due to the extreme sensitivity of the data. (See Appendix #3)

Section 301 of the U.S. Trade Act of 1974, “authorizes the President to take all appropriate action, including retaliation, to obtain the removal of any act, policy, or practice of a foreign government that violates an international trade agreement or is unjustified, unreasonable, or discriminatory, and that burdens or restricts U.S. commerce.”

An analysis of the performance of all other US-bilateral FTAs reveals that they do not deliver a systemic advantage to any partner. Whether one country or another has a trade surplus in any given year is a "random walk" responding to market forces. In 2010, the US had a $31.43 billion surplus with its bilateral FTA partners, though in 2006 and 2007 these same agreements produced a narrow US deficit.

US-other Bilat FTA Trade in Goods

Because Israel unfairly leveraged business confidential information stolen from US corporations and industry groups to create new export oriented industries to penetrate the American market, it gained an unwarranted systemic advantage. The US-Israel FTA is an anomaly among FTAs in that it principally benefits the foreign party, providing a destination for 40% of Israel's exports. It resembles a private industry funded foreign aid program more than a bilateral FTA. In 2010 the US Israel FTA produced an $11.2 billion US deficit in goods trade. Over the past 10 years, the US deficit has averaged $7.09 billion per year. Since 1985 the cumulative US-Israel deficit in current dollars is $80.9 billion.

US-Israel Trade in Goods

It is probable that if the US-Israel free trade negotiations and subsequent exchange had taken place without the misappropriation of classified US trade data, it would more resemble other US-bilateral trade agreement performance. Absent the Israeli advantage achieved through data misappropriation, it is highly likely US-Israel trade would have been in parity, producing no systemic deficit for the US. Under normal conditions, the US would have likely enjoyed a 50% share of bilateral flows, or $33.2 billion in additional exports to Israel.

Assuming average wholesale margins of 20%, over the last ten years US exporters lost $6.64 billion due to this Israeli violation of the U.S. Trade Act of 1974. The 76 organizations opposed to the FTA (or their successors) have never been fairly compensated for Israel's theft and ongoing use of their confidential business information.

This petition seeks Israeli government compensation for the trade data theft equal to a total $6.64 billion settlement divided between the 76 US industry groups in proportion to their 10 year trailing gross revenue. If the Israeli government refuses to pay, an import duty to generate $6.64 billion compensation over the next five years should immediately applied to Israeli exports to the US.

Dear Secretary Mason:

I would like to respond to the inquiry concerning the proposed U.S.-Israeli Free Trade Treaty now under discussion. There are some issues important to Monsanto and the chemical industry that should be considered during the ensuing discussion between the two governments.

- Intellectual Property Rights-Patents: While the protection offered by granted Israeli patents is satisfactory, a procedural flaw in this patent system can be manipulated to deny U.S. innovations' protection for extended periods of time. Monsanto, for example, has had a patent application pending on a product widely patented around the world for well over a decade.

Because a local concern has been able to take advantage of the procedural shortcomings in the Israeli "patent opposition system," the granting of a patent to Monsanto has been blocked. While these proceedings have gone on, the local firm has been producing and exporting Monsanto's proprietary product. Furthermore, it appears that the proceedings will continue beyond what would have been the full term of the patent -- if it had been issued in a reasonable time. Thus, at this point, Monsanto's patent application will be moot. All of these difficulties could be prevented by relatively simple changes in Israel's patent procedure laws.

If the problems inherent in the patent procedure laws are not corrected, the international competitiveness of U.S. high technology industries could be easily undercut. This is especially true in the agricultural chemical and pharmaceutical industries and has significant implications for the growing biotechnology area.

We will be providing your office with a detailed paper outlining our concerns and possible solutions to problems that arise from Israeli patent procedure laws in the near future.

- Safeguards/Competitive Need Limits: Monsanto supports the establishment of a safeguard system modeled on the effective process developed in the GSP legislation. The need to maintain safeguards is important to ensure that U.S. chemical markets and U.S. manufacturers are not injured by imports. Three fourths of Israel's chemical industry is owned by the government, and it receives substantial export subsidies. The government also subsidizes research and development in the chemical industry. These incentives make Israel a strong competitor in agricultural chemicals and pharmaceuticals -- two areas which require a relatively low amount of capital investment compared to the traditional chemical businesses.

Currently 95% of Israel's chemical exports to the U.S. enter duty free through MFN and GSP privileges. In the decade ahead, Israel will become an increasingly active exporter of these products and may cause some market discontinuities in the U.S. Therefore, a system of safeguards, modeled on the GSP codes, would be extremely important to the chemical industry.

- Trade Distorting Factors and Non-Tariff Barriers: This agreement should also address non-tariff barriers and other trade-distorting practices such as export subsidies. For example, Israel requires importers to place on deposit 15% of the value of the import for one year in a non-interest bearing account. Because of Israel's high rate of inflation, this deposit acts as a 10% tariff on imports. In addition, as stated above, there are several export incentives that give Israeli producers a significant advantage compared to their international competitors.

In general, Monsanto strongly supports our government's efforts to strengthen U.S. international economic relations through bilateral trade and investment treaties with our trading partners. But these agreements should include strong statements on: 1) protection of intellectual property rights, 2) adequate and well-defined safeguard provisions, and 3) reduction and/or elimination of non-tariff barriers, export subsidies and performance requirements.

However, our government should also make a distinction between the advanced developing and developed countries with a strong current account position (such as Taiwan, Hong Kong and Japan) and those with severe balance of payments problems (such as Brazil, Mexico, and Argentina). In this regard, the United States should be willing to grant a "realistic" amount of time to obtain a phased-in reduction of tariff, non-tariff barriers, and export incentives with those countries with weak economies -- without sacrificing import safeguards or protection of U.S. property rights.

With those countries with strong current account balances, the United States should be aggressive in obtaining lowered trade barriers, and protection of property rights. For example, Taiwan has a $6.7 billion trade surplus with the U.S. and an average tariff rate of 30% -- the highest in the region. Taiwan has also resorted to quotas on U.S. imports despite the large U.S. trade deficit with Taiwan. The U.S. also has a $20 billion trade deficit with Japan, and Japanese non-tariff barriers have been extremely successful in keeping out U.S. goods. The U.S. and Japanese government should work hard "to identify American sources that meet Japanese market requirements while encouraging Japanese procurement officials to purchase these products" -- as was stated in the Joint Communique of the 20th Japan-U.S. Businessmen's Conference.

In addition, we hope U.S. industry representation can continue to play a role in the bilateral negotiations. U.S. industry has a lot riding on these negotiations and our knowledge of the markets and products would be an asset in these discussions.

I hope these remarks prove useful in your discussions.

Yours truly,

T. L. Gossage
